

Jeffrey Block

Associate Director
Thomson Reuters
Strategic Research

Published: June 2008

Thomson Reuters Strategic Research Reports provide timely and unique insight to increase the efficiency and effectiveness of corporate officers.

For questions about this report, please contact Jeff Block at jeffrey.block@thomsonreuters.com or (312) 288-3059.

© Copyright Thomson Reuters 2008. All rights reserved. Reproduction of, dissemination of, modifications to or creation of derivative works from this document, by any means and in any form or manner, is expressly prohibited, except with the prior written permission of Thomson Reuters. This document contains trademarks of Thomson Reuters and its affiliated companies in the United States and other countries and used herein under license. Non-Thomson Reuters marks are trademarks of their respective owners.

STRATEGIC RESEARCH

CORPORATE COMMUNICATION STRATEGIES DURING MERGERS & ACQUISITIONS

EXECUTIVE SUMMARY

A merger and acquisition transaction is a non-routine situation that calls for careful planning and coordination when delivering the appropriate message to the media, stakeholders, and employees. This report highlights the best practices for effectively managing internal and external communications before, during, and after a merger transaction.

- Effective communication is necessary in an M&A deal, but is often overlooked and frequently blamed for deal failure
- A communications task force can identify potential pitfalls
- Coordination with Legal, Public Relations, and Investor Relations leads to manageable flow of content
- Dedicated internal and external Web sites are an effective way for message dissemination and feedback from employees and customers and are becoming the norm for a single source of communication
- Employee surveys can isolate internal rumors which can then be resolved

Successful companies have an established M&A strategy in place as part of their long-term growth plan. Having an effective corporate communications strategy during a deal can help prevent an exodus of employees and customers. Proper communication is necessary for a successful integration, yet it is frequently overlooked, under-resourced, and then finally blamed if the merger fails. Senior management may be so engrossed with the financial aspects of the deal that the demands of communications become less of a priority. Conversely, an over-abundance of communication cannot save a failing or doomed merger: it cannot make-up for poor integration planning, slothful due diligence, or a failure to understand where the merging partners can provide added value to their customers.

Above all, announcement of a merger will result in an avalanche of questions coming from all directions. Regulators, employees, investors, customers, suppliers, and the media will be clamoring for information and it is imperative that Corporate Communications be prepared with the appropriate message, medium, and coordination to meet the demands from all parties.

Thomson Reuters has developed best practices to build an effective corporate communications strategy during a merger. The specific topics are what to do before, during, and after a merger; trends that are being followed by companies; and how to identify the balance of the communication medium and appropriate content.

About Thomson Reuters

Thomson Reuters is the world's leading source of intelligent information for businesses and professionals. We combine industry expertise with innovative technology to deliver critical information to leading decision makers in the financial, legal, tax and accounting, scientific, healthcare and media markets, powered by the world's most trusted news organization. With headquarters in New York and major operations in London and Eagan, Minnesota, Thomson Reuters employs more than 50,000 people in 93 countries. Thomson Reuters shares are listed on the New York Stock Exchange (NYSE: TRI); Toronto Stock Exchange (TSX: TRI); London Stock Exchange (LSE: TRIL); and NASDAQ (NASDAQ: TRIN). For more information, go to www.thomsonreuters.com.

About Corporate Services

Maximize the value of your company with our suite of corporate solutions across the Investor Relations, Corporate Communications, Treasury and Corporate Finance functions. Leveraging more than two decades of experience serving the global corporate marketplace, our solutions are designed to increase the efficiency and effectiveness of your daily workflow to help you reach business decisions quickly and with confidence. Backed by knowledgeable client service professionals dedicated to proactive outreach and training, Thomson Reuters is the partner of choice for more than 5,000 corporations worldwide.

Contact us at:

thomsonreuters.com

StrategicResearch@thomson.com

North America: 866.915.9891

Europe: +44.207.369.7199

Asia: +852.2533.5564

Important Notice

This disclaimer is in addition to and not in replacement of any disclaimer of warranties and liabilities set forth in a written agreement between Thomson Reuters and you or the party authorizing your access to the Service ("Contract Disclaimer"). In the event of a conflict or inconsistency between this disclaimer and the Contract Disclaimer the terms of the Contract Disclaimer shall control.

By accessing these materials, you hereby agree to the following:

These research reports and the information contained therein is for your internal use only and redistribution of this information is expressly prohibited. These reports including the information and analysis, any opinion or recommendation is not intended for investment purposes and does not constitute investment advice or an offer, or an invitation to make an offer, to buy or sell any securities or any derivatives related to such securities.

Thomson Reuters does not warrant the accuracy of the reports for any particular purpose and expressly disclaims any warranties of merchantability or fitness for a particular purpose; nor does Thomson Reuters guarantee the accuracy, validity, timeliness or completeness of any information or data included in these reports for any particular purpose. Thomson Reuters is under no obligation to provide you with any current or corrected information. Neither Thomson Reuters, nor any of its affiliates, directors, officers or employees, will be liable or have any responsibility of any kind for any loss or damage (whether direct, indirect, consequential, or any other damages of any kind even if Thomson Reuters was advised of the possibility thereof) that you incur in connection with, relating to or arising out of these materials or the analysis, views, recommendations, opinions or information contained therein, or from any other cause relating to your access to, inability to access, or use of these materials, whether or not the circumstances giving rise to such cause may have been within the control of Thomson Reuters.

The information provided in these materials is not intended for distribution to, or use by, any person or entity in any jurisdiction or country where such distribution or use would be contrary to law or regulation or which would subject Thomson Reuters or its affiliates to any registration requirement within such jurisdiction or country.